Introduction

It was extremely difficult for an artist living in England at the beginning of the last century to show his work for the only open exhibitions in London were those of the Royal Academy and the British Institution.

So, 'Certain gentlemen being artists by profession' met in the Freemasons Tavern, Lincoln's Inn Fields to discuss the formation of a new art society.

The result of these deliberations is too well known to enlarge upon here but they resulted in the formation of the Society of British Artists which received a Royal Charter on 3rd February, 1847 and on 9th August, 1887 the Society was informed that in future it should be styled The Royal Society of British Artists.

The first exhibition of the Society was held in its own exhibition rooms designed by John Nash in Suffolk Street off Pall Mall in 1824.

Many of the leading painters in Great Britain during the past 150 years are numbered amongst its Members but no records appear to have been kept of their earlier exhibits with the Society.

This dictionary has been produced with the object of assembling in a single volume and in alphabetical sequence all the Members who exhibited from the inception of the Society in 1824 to 1892 giving titles of pictures, dates exhibited and the address of the artist, also the prices asked at the time.

It is hoped that the volume will fill a long felt want and be a useful record of the period.
